OXYGEN BOMB TEST DELAYED ANOTHER WEEK

Barlow's Gimite Is Gone with Wind After Rain Soaks Bag

ABERDEEN, Md., May 17 (AP).—A test of the death-dealing powers of inventor Lester P. Barlow's liquid-oxygen-carbon bomb was postponed yesterday until next week and the lives of a herd of goats were at least temporarily spared.

The inventor declined to go through with the test because, he said, he was ordered to bring out a 1,000-pound sack of his "gimite" 20 minutes before the scheduled time and much of the oxygen evaporated. Barlow, obviously upset, left the scene before some of the congressional committeemen and military authorities for whom the demonstration was arranged had arrived. He returned later and said there had been "some mistake."

Senator Morris Sheppard (Dem., Texas), chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, which sanctioned the use of live goats in testing the destructive properties of the explosive, told Barlow he could arrange a demonstration for next week, with the inventor to set the day.

A herd of goats brought to the Army's proving grounds here will be used in the test next week.

Barlow contends his bomb is capable of killing every living thing within a 1,000-foot radius.

Lost Third of Power

Barlow said officials of the proving ground directed him to set up his bomb at about 8:40 A. M., 20 minutes before the scheduled time for the demonstration.

While it hung on a pole drenched by a pouring rain, the oxygen in the gimmy sack gave off white vapors, plainly visible to the spectators gathered on a platform 2,500 feet away. Barlow estimated one third of the bomb's power was lost in this manner.

At 8:55, when only a few members of the congressional party, flying from Washington in three planes, had arrived, Barlow left the scene in an automobile asserting he was "being made a sucker before the whole nation."

About a mile away he met a car containing Senator Sheppard and other committee members. They went into a huddle in which Barlow was absolved and next week's demonstration agreed upon.

Would Punish Barlow

Meanwhile Rep. May (D.-Ky.), chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, said the group on the previous platform that Barlow should be held in contempt for leaving without the committee's permission.

"I am going to treat it as a run-[illegible] Barlow [illegible] and [illegible] to make [illegible]."

C. B. O. Lewis, officer in charge of the proving ground platform, told May [illegible] Barlow to set up [illegible] the only order he [illegible] was for the bombing range to be cleared.

Barlow said there would have been no evaporation had the explosive been [illegible] A sack was used instead, he explained, to avoid [illegible] flying fragments.

Senator Reynolds (D-NC) took a [illegible] view of the entire matter.

"Some one always profits by such things," he said, "and in this instance it's the goats."

Barlow declared that he had returned two days ago from the bombing [illegible] of the Glenn L. Martin aircraft Company, saying he did so because Martin refused the War Department's request that he take responsibility for any damage that might result from the demonstration.

Stevenson of Chestertown, Sherburne H. Fogg of Warrensburg, and Herman A. Murray, Lake George. The new hommes were addressed briefly by Grand Chemmot Thomas E. Weatherwax of Rouses Point. Cref de Gare Earl M. Waddell of North Creek presided over the promenade and wreck ceremonies.

The Voiture voted to furnish dinners for the six Warren County youths who will be sent to the American Legion Boys' State in Syracuse by Legion posts of the county.

Expanded Defense Program to Add 7,000 Pilots Each Year to American Army Air Corps

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP).—The Air Corps counted today on an expanded defense program to step up the training of army pilots almost fourfold and thus add 7,000 military fliers to the service annually.

Once a go-ahead is given, Army officials said they could start an enlarged training organization within a few weeks.

Although small compared with Britain's wartime training campaign in Canada, which aims at 25,000 pilots a year, an annual output of 7,000 fliers would represent a tremendous jump for the Army Air Corps. In 1938 it trained fewer than 400, and today the average is only 163 a month.

The Air Corps had 2,608 Regular Army and reserve pilots in service last June 30. Congress provided for 4,663 by mid-1941, with the result that training has been on an emergency basis since last Summer.

Any 7,000-pilots-a-year program also would include annual training of 7,000 mechanics and 7,000 troops for Air Corps duty.

To obtain 7,000 efficient fliers will involve the "processing" of about 75,000 applicants, it was estimated.

Touching on the same matter Mr. Roosevelt expressed hope "that the Congress will make provision for the regulation and simplification of Federal criminal procedure by means of judicial rule-making similar to that made by it several years ago in respect to federal civil procedure."
